Worthing Mayors in medieval Stocks
Stephen Murray as Homer Simpson
Saturday 7th August 10am 1pm Montague Sq Worthing

Dial a hubby launches new interactive road show, with even more fun, Stephen Murray Founder said we thought we would try something completely different this year to engage with people. So we rolled out the New Road show in Worthing several Sundays ago, which was a complete success.

The road show consists of the Dial a hubby Vans, Banners, staff and an all new 5.5 mtr sky dancer waving about, the type that you see in the USA, free raffles for the kids, free raffles for the parents and a set of medieval stocks for photo opportunities designed to raise money for St Barnabas. The Homer Simpson lookalike competition http://www.dialahubby.co.uk/lookalike_pg.html where the kids can throw a wet sponge at dad, was particularly well received by the youngsters

Stephen said Dial a hubby is committed to supporting many local organisations, This weekend the company is sponsoring Queen Alexander Hospital Home in Worthing, where Dame Vera Lynn will be present and hopefully sing a song or two.

On Saturday 7th August Worthing Mayor Anne Sayers will be attending the formal launch in Montague Sq Worthing of 2 new local franchises and a new associate franchise package designed to assist people who want to get into handyman franchising the Dial a hubby way. The Package specifically designed to dilute the money supply problems people are experiencing at the moment. Stephen went onto say that this package is totally unique and he can't see why no one has come up with it before. It hasn't devalued the franchise, in fact Stephen feels that it will enhance the network and create business opportunities at a realistic price. Added to this, as a reward everyone who takes up the new franchise package receives a 3 day residential locksmith course on their first anniversary, information on the training can be found here http://www.dialahubby.co.uk/locksmith_trng.html why not come along and join the fun.
